1. shame

glossary

1. shame

shame.

noun. painful feeling of humiliation or distress caused by the consciousness of wrong or foolish behaviour.

synonym: Jonathan Byers.

antonym: Steve Harrington.

within a context:

after Steve broke his camera, Jonathan felt his face hot with shame for who he was. why couldn't he just react?

- Jonathan Byers – Bethany, a girl from his math class whispered between laughs – shame on you for being such a weirdo.

n/a: soon, i'll be writing another chapters. i really hope you guys liked the whole ideia.

do you have any suggestions ou critics? reviews are always very welcomed!

n/a2: i'm sorry about any grammar mistakes. english is my second language and i'm not used with all those grammar rules!

2. sex

2. sex

sex.

noun. either the male or female division of a species, especially as differentiated with reference to the reproductive functions. the instinct or attraction drawing one sex toward another, or its manifestation in life and conduct.

antonym: Barbara Holland

within a context:

- Nancy, why do you get so nervous when that jerk comes around? - Barb asked, wincing as she smelled the Steve Harrington's cheap cologne.

Nancy shrugged. it was obvious that Barb didn't understand; after all, pure the way she was, Barb shouldn't knew even how to touch her private parts, her own sex.

- girl - Barb raised her tone – come back to reality. thinking about Steve isn't going to take you both to have sex. you should actually do something, Nance.

Nancy blushed. how did Barb know ...?

- i'm not an idiot, geez - Barb smiled - if you want the jerk, go ahead ... but after class, please.
